The new interior of our church is attractive indeed and makes the house of worship a place of beauty and should bring about a greater interest in the community.

Rich, red blood coursing through your veins is a sure sign of a good digestion. Unless your stomach, liver and other digestive organs are working promptly and thoroughly, the blood cannot assimilate all the nourishment from your food; your energy and vitality are not renewed.
 Eat all you want, only avoid too much pastry and rich foods, but be sure to take plenty of time to chew slowly and well. Chewing is the first part of the process of digestion.
 A teaspoonful of "L.F." Atwood's Medicine occasionally will purge your system of impurities, and allow only nutritious elements to enter the blood. It will keep your liver active and you will get the full benefit of your food.

Keep a bottle of "L.F." always on hand. It is absolutely harmless under all conditions,

Oxford County Men Vote To Organize A Farm Bureau

More than a score of representative farmers from the principal towns of Oxford County met at the Municipal Rooms in Norway Tuesday for the purpose of discussing the formation of a Farm Bureau. It was the unanimous vote that such should be organized.

The meeting was called to order by G. A. Yeaton, the County Agent, who explained the purpose of the gathering and the need of a Farm Bureau in the county. W. H. Conant of Buckfield was elected temporary chairman and W. M. Morse of Waterford secretary and treasurer until the final organization can be perfected.

W. B. Deering, president of the State Farm Bureau Federation, followed Mr. Yeaton, describing what the state organization had accomplished. This speaker was followed by the Secretary of the State Federation, A. L. Deering, who discussed the object of the Farm Bureau and its value to Oxford County farmers. Every man present joined the organization before leaving and was unanimous in his belief that this county could have one of the strongest Bureaus in the state.

The Secretary of the State Federation, A. L. Deering, described the growth of the Farm Bureau movement as follows: "The Farm Bureau was organized approximately ten years ago, since that time every county in the 33 states of the North and West has organized bureaus. These bureaus have then gotten together and organized State Federations. The State Federations have recently organized a National Federation representing the 33 states and more than a million members. The object of the Farm Bureau is to promote and protect agriculture. It replaces no organization nor does it do the work of those now of benefit to the farmer. It could well be compared to an active Chamber of Commerce, working for the interest of the farmers of the county."

Oxford County and its people should be very much interested in such an organization for W. B. Deering referred to the fact that the State Federation had recently secured the enactment of a law which "makes available $2,000 to any County Farm Bureau having 200 or more members," furthermore Oxford Co. has the same problems and can receive the same benefit from the Farm Bureau as the other counties.

It is not the discredit of Oxford County that they have not had a Farm Bureau before; however, the fact remains that every county in Maine is served by such an organization as this. There are today Farm Bureaus in all of the counties of Maine except this having a total of over 200 towns of the State.

Mr. Yeaton has already arranged meetings for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in the following towns: Dixfield, Rumford Center, Canton, Sumner, Hebron, Buckfield, Norway, Waterford and South Paris. Similar meetings will also be arranged for in the remaining towns during October for the purpose of placing before the people of each town the value such an organization can be to them. The following were the leading men present at the meeting Tuesday: W. M. Morse, R. O. Deering, Leslie E. McIntire, Harold S. Pike, Fred H. Johnson, E. K. Kilgore, H. H. Maxim, G. W. Richardson, Stephen Abbott, A. Van Den Kerckhoven, E. E. Conant, W. H. Conant, Sidney Brown and J. W. G. Walker.

HOW A WANT IS CREATED

What has been done can be done again. Here are a few suggestions as to how some large institutions hold trade and create wants by advertising, where no want seemed to exist and what is true on a large scale is true on a smaller scale.

Oil is so common a commodity that it would seem impossible to find the person who is not familiar with it, yet millions of dollars are annually sent in the U. S. for publicity in the interest of oil for lighting, for lubricating and for food. Strange, isn't it, that so large and well known a concern as the Standard Oil Co. should find it profitable to advertise in more than ten thousand papers.

Railroads—how foolish to think people do not know about them, still the greatest systems of the United States find it pays them to spend a very considerable part of their revenue in advertising. Ten million dollars is what report says they will spend during 1920. Does not this demonstrate faith in advertising?

It is the same way with crackers, breakfast food, soap and most of the common necessities of life. Is it not strange that the more generally they seem to be in demand, the more profitable the best manufacturers seem to find continuous advertising?

Owners of the telephone, the telegraph and even the newspaper are not withstanding the general knowledge the public have of them, still find it profitable to advertise.

Think what advertising has done for the development of the automobile industry, even though people were fairly well satisfied with the old methods of travel.

No class of business men are so successful as those who are engaged in supplying the most common necessities of life and, yet, these are the men who most willingly invest the largest sums in advertising.

HOW TO TREAT IVY POISONING

In the early stages of ivy poisoning remedies having a fatty or oily base, such as ointments, should not be used, as the grease or oil tends to dissolve and spread the poison, according to specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Instead they advise simple remedies such as local applications of solutions of cooking soda or of Epsom salt, one or two heaping teaspoons to a cup of water. Fluid extract of grindelia, diluted with 4 to 8 parts of water, is often used.

Solutions of this kind may be applied with light bandages or clean cloths, which should be kept moist, and should be changed and discarded frequently to avoid infection. During the night the poisoned surface should not be used, when moist applications cannot be used, the surface should be carefully cleaned and dried and left exposed to the air rather than tightly bandaged. In the later stage, after the toxic material has exhausted itself, zinc-oxide ointment and similar mild antiseptic and astringent applications hasten healing. These are a few of the helpful hints concerning ivy poisoning contained in Farmers' Bulletin 1166, which tells also how to distinguish between poison ivy and poison sumac. The bulletin is illustrated with pictures of the two plants, which are often confused.

TO CONNECT WITH CENTRAL MAINE POWER SYSTEM

The men began work Monday morning on the new power line from Deer Rips to Mechanic Falls, tying in the Oxford Electric Company with the Central Maine Power System. This line will be 15 miles long and an effort will be made to maintain the "mile of line a day" construction record they set on the Farmington line.

The new line to the Oxford Company will insure the towns of Mechanic Falls, Norway and South Paris from any shortage of power, for they will be on the main Central Maine Power System, with all its big hydro-electric power stations backed by the steam reserve stations. In the past these towns have been hampered in industrial growth because of a shortage of electrical power, especially during low water periods, but as soon as they are "tied up," these troubles will cease.

Company officials state that the line will probably be completed inside of five or six weeks. The Central Maine Power Company is also contemplating the possibility of line extensions as soon as this connection is made, to West Paris, Paris Hill and Poland Corner.

Mrs. E. Hamilton Gained 15 pounds

Had Suffered For Ten Years, But Feels Like Different Person
Now

"My ten years of troubles have completely left me and I have gained fifteen pounds in weight since I began taking Tanlac," was the statement made the other day by Mrs. Edith Hamilton of 20 Bradford St., Portland, Maine.

"Words just can't express what I have gone through during the past ten years," continued Mrs. Hamilton, "only my friends and neighbors know how I have suffered. I could not get to sleep until one and two o'clock in the morning and then my sleep was restless and broken. I had indigestion so bad that the pains in my stomach nearly drew me double. I suffered with a heavy, distressing feeling after every meal and at times I thought I would choke to death. My housework was a burden, and during the day I would give completely out and have to lie down to rest. I got up every morning tired out and from then on till night I felt weak and miserable."

"None of the medicines I tried did me any good until I started taking Tanlac, and now that I have taken three bottles, I am feeling like a different person altogether. My digestion just simply could not be any better than it is now, and it doesn't make any difference what I eat I never suffer afterwards. The pains in my stomach have all disappeared and so has that feeling of distress I used to have. My sleep is sound as can be and I never wake up once until it is time to get up. I am more energetic than ever and I can do my housework without tiring one bit. I have gained in weight and strength and am in better general health than in many years."

Tanlac is sold in Norway by A. L. Clark Drug Co., in West Paris by S. T. White, and by O. H. Haskell, Sweden, R. F. D. from Harrison.

SEA TURNS

Great Diamond Island, Portland, Aug. 17, 1920.

Editor of the Advertiser: During the past week we have had much foggy weather. It has not been very bad here on the island, but out in the track of the boats there has been a great deal of blowing of steam whistles and fog horns night and day. Thursday was a fairly good day and I went down the bay to Little Island where the veterans of the old 1st, 10th and 29th regiments had their annual reunion. The first man I saw was a little wiry fellow past the age of 85 and such good health that he had come across the continent to attend the reunion. His residence was in Portland, Oregon, but he was a member of the Soldiers' Home at Los Angeles, Cal., but away on furlough. His name was A. A. Drake and the first question he asked me after he found I was from Norway, was: "How is Capt. Whitmarsh?" I told him that Norway's grand old man was confined to the house, but was being tenderly cared for by his wife and daughter. "He was one of the best officers in the Regiment," said he, "and I shall go to see him when I go up to the Fair in September."

Mr. Drake, on the way down to Doughty's Landing where we got off the boat, gave me much information about the Pacific Coast country. I incidentally mentioned some fierce thunder showers we had recently experienced here. "Oh! we don't have any in Los Angeles," said he, "but I remember once we had a few years ago. The thunder just rumbled a little and I was so disgusted that I cried out, 'Why in thunder don't you get down to business!' I laughed heartily. Drake is a character—a real old Down East Yankee. He is in a fair way, barring accidents, to live to see his hundredth birthday and also to see every one of this famous organization 'cross over to the other shore.' Charles F. Millett, a Norway boy, but now of Auburn, greeted me on landing, and he stuck to me like a brother till I got back to Great Diamond Island. I formed his acquaintance when I taught my first school in Norway on the east side of the lake and we have been good friends ever since. He knows more local history of that part of Norway called Lee's Grant, and of the families who lived there in the early days than any living man. From him I have obtained the genealogy of the Milletts for the new Norway History and valuable information, which but for him would have been lost.

The next man I met whom I knew was my old friend, Thomas Powers, formerly of South Paris, but now a resident of Dry Mills. "Hello, Judge, I am more pleased to see you than any other here," was his greeting. I shall never forget overhearing him say to someone standing by while he was doing some work at the court house that he had become greatly attached to me and J. Hastings Bean and hoped we would keep our offices as long as we cared to. His regard for me touched me deeply. No truer friend or better man ever went into battle for his country. He was so severely wounded at Cedar Mt., Va., that he was not expected to live. He recovered however, and was among the first ones—sixteen thousand and something—for to receive a pension. Tom Powers will never lack any assistance I am able to render him.

Norway was represented at the reunion by Henry A. Bickford. His two brothers were there. They were older than he. The oldest was over 86 years of age and well and hearty. He worked every day. Both the other brothers were proud of him. Still another brother was also a soldier. A very remarkable family surely. The oldest one will give our little Yankee friend from the Pacific Coast a pretty tight pull for the hundred mark. Henry A. Bickford had a daughter here with her family, who has no superior as a manager. Mrs. Rice has many splendid qualities and no outs and is liked and admired by all who know her. If she could have a hand in the management of the 1st, 10th and 29th association, there would be no question raised of its letting some other organization take over its effects and allowing itself to peacefully die. This matter engrossed pretty much the whole attention of the members for the day. Nothing else of moment was talked about.

Major John M. Gould, secretary and historian, advocated giving over the property of the association and going out of business. The President took the same view. The general sentiment was opposed to this and the matter was placed in the hands of the trustees to report at the next annual meeting.

I felt the inspiration to talk, but not being a member of the association, had no chance to do so. I would have minded them of the declaration of the dying Captain Lawrence, when being carried down from the deck of his vessel to his cabin after being wounded in the battle with an English ship during the war of 1812-15. This was his command to his officers and men: "Don't give up the ship."

I would have reminded them of the glorious record of the 10th Maine and how it covered the retreat of Gen. Banks' little army of 8,000 troops, down the Shenandoah Valley, Va., to Williamsport when pursued by Stonewall Jackson and a Rebel army of 20,000. I would have reminded them of the 29th Maine again covered the retreat of the army under the same commander down the Red River Valley in Louisiana and checked the advance of the Confederates under Gen. Richard Taylor, at the Battle of Mansfield. Gen. Banks had said, "Colonel Beal, you must stop the enemy here or the army is destroyed." The work was done by the men from Maine in the old 29th regiment. Here Colonel George L. Beal of Norway won the stars of a Brigadier General and the old regiment imperishable renown.

One man has had for many years too much on his shoulders. The President said if Major John M. Gould should pass away, the bottom of the association would drop out. No one questioned it. I could not help thinking that what was needed was new blood in the management and a determination to keep the flag at the mast head and never say "die."

The most affecting event to me in the exercises was the verbal message of greeting from Whitmarsh, blind and helpless at his Norway home. This was done by W. K. Dana of Westbrook in a few well chosen and very appropriate remarks.

I should not forget to mention my meeting with Alphonzo Warren and Wm. Bridgman of Buckfield, who played the drum and fife. The former was the drummer boy of Buckfield when the Civil War broke out. He went out in the 23rd Maine. The latter in the 29th Maine. I knew them well as a boy.

I met also for the first time in many years, J. Elliott Davis of Auburn. He was born in that part of Hebron near the Buckfield town line, called "Sodom." His father was a brother of my grandmother Whitmarsh. Davies enlisted with his brother William in the 10th Maine and was a good soldier. He had a very pleasant chat of our boyhood days, now fast slipping out of our memories.

I was greatly affected by the intelligence through the Advertiser of the passing away of thick-fisted little angel, Dorothy W. Cummings. She was one of my pets, I did not imagine that her sweet voice and pleasant greetings. The passing of one so young, pure and good, is inexpressibly sad, but "There is no death; a star goes down To rise upon some other shore; And shines forevermore."

The prices here on the island are something fierce, but one can go up to the city and at reputable places get what is wanted at reasonable rates for what is wanted. Naturally it does not mean that business places near home, but when we become assured that excessive profits are being realized, such interest wholly ceases. Milk is 20 cents a quart at the store. Potatoes (new) $1.25 a 75c a dozen, 55c up town. Many cottagers are having packages from home, but farms sent by parcel post and the mail carrier is taxed to his capacity. He is a fine officer of 16 years service and is much liked by all.

He comes once a day on the 9:30 boat (standard time) and goes from here to Little Diamond Island. If one has any carpenter work done here, he must pay $1.00 an hour or $8.00 a day and slow help at that. The "consumer" will have his savings later on, never fear. Mrs. Whitmarsh paid $2.00 for a pair of shirts for me in the Spring at Little Norway. When I came later to look at the change with view of purchasing, I saw in a city store window as I was passing, the same garment advertised for $3.30 a pair. The fellow on Congress street the same thing for $2.00 a pair. Isn't this evidence of falling prices?

We miss the old town clock which, through the efforts of Mrs. Laura A. Sanborn, Mr. Solomon I. Millett and your correspondent, the people of Norway enjoy the benefit of, but I regulate my watch by the 5 o'clock morning gun at the Fort.

Mr. Millett has passed away; Mrs. Sanborn is still in her glory—an able writer and business woman; the third author of that committee, though the author of the Municipal Court and Public Library has yet to do his best and most important work in producing a standard history of Norway.

Whenever I hear the boom of that morning gun, there comes to mind those stirring lines I first heard in the Lincoln campaign of 1860. The first stanza is as follows:

"Hark! Hark! A signal gun is heard,
 Must out beyond the fort;
 That good old ship of state, my boys,
 Is coming into port.
 With shattered sails and anchors gone,
 And fear the rogues will strand her;
 She carries not a sorry crew,
 And needs a new commander."

P. S. Greetings to Mrs. Clara Ames Hayden, the smartest old lady in the State of Maine. There is no reason in the world why she won't see her 100th birthday when the whole town will turn out to celebrate that event. Mrs. Drake her daughter, tenderly cares for her. The cause of my message to her through the Advertiser at this time is the fact that she is a great, great grandmother—an unbroken living line of five generations. It is rather late, I am aware, but like the Irishman who had given a Jew a severe drubbing and gave as his excuse that the Jew had crucified Christ. He was told before "That may be," said the disciple of St. Patrick, "but this is the first time I have heard of it."

When the coal is gone What then?

When the nation's supply of easily-mined, high-grade coal gets low---as experts say it will in the next third century---and the price becomes almost prohibitive, what will the nation's industries do?

Far-sighted manufacturers are already looking squarely at this problem. The only answer is hydro-electric power---and hydro-electric power is not available in every section of the country.

Because Maine has water power, some few of the more aggressive manufacturers have already moved their factories into this state and many other progressive ones are considering Maine locations for their industries.

Manufacturers are coming to a place where, as long as Maine rivers seek the sea, they will be free from the menace of high-priced and scarce coal and will be assured of hydro-electric power in satisfactory quantities.

To meet the power demands, the Central Maine Power Company is developing a power station at Skowhegan.

To finance this development the company is selling its 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock at $107.50 a share, to yield 6 1-2 per cent. net.

As the coal supply decreases, the prosperity of Maine increases, provided it has developed water powers to attract industries.

If you are interested in the future prosperity of Maine, why not send the coupon for further information about this preferred stock?

NEW USES OF CUCUMBERS

Cucumbers, when in season, are usually cheap much cheaper than corn, beans, or peas—but the average family grows of them served raw and so by early fall comparatively few are being eaten in American homes. Not many American housekeepers know their possibilities as a cooked vegetable, but in other countries they are used in the same way as egg-plant, squash, and corn. They have a flavor all their own and afford a pleasant change in the diet.

The following recipes have been taken largely from foreign cookbooks and are favorites of housewives of other countries. They have been tested by United States Department of Agriculture home economics specialists. Some day, when there are more cucumbers on the vines than can be used for pickles or in the usual salads, try one of these recipes.
You may find that your family will like them baked, boiled, or fried as well as do the Swiss or the French.

Garnish For Fish and Meats Peel and cut a large cucumber in pieces about two inches long. Scoop out one end. Fill with meat or fish sauce and use as garnish and serve one with each portion of meat. The sauce and cucumber, eaten with the meat, makes a good relish.

Baked Cucumbers
Use solid cucumbers of the same size.
Peel and cut lengthwise, scooping out the inside carefully and leaving the shell one-quarter to one-half inch in thickness. To four cucumbers use: One cup bread crumbs, one tablespoon butter, two teaspoons salt, two teaspoons onion, finely chopped, pepper. The part of the cucumber scooped out.

If seeds are large, do not use the seedy part. Fill cucumbers, sprinkle some nut-tered bread crumbs on top. Bake until tender—about 30 minutes in moderate oven.

Stewed Cucumbers With Sauce Slice cucumbers into pieces an inch long and cook until tender in salted water. Serve hot with sauce made as follows:

One tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour, two-thirds cup rich milk, yolks of two eggs, well beaten, one teaspoon vinegar, salt and pepper.

Mix butter and flour in frying pan.
When blended, add milk and cook until rather thick. Pour over eggs and vinegar.

Fried Cucumbers
Peel and cut cucumbers in lengthwise slices. Roll in flour and fry in deep fat until golden brown. Serve very hot.

Sautéed Cucumbers and Onions One tablespoon butter or drippings, two cucumbers, one small onion, one-half cup milk or cream, salt and pepper.

Fry onion in butter until golden brown then add sliced cucumbers and cook until tender. Add cream or milk and season well with salt and pepper.

Cucumber Jelly
Six cucumbers, one pint water, one tablespoon vinegar, one ounce gelatin, one small onion, two teaspoons salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper.

Peel onion, slice, cover with boiling water, and cook with the cucumbers until tender.
Press through a sieve. Soak gelatin in one-half cup cold water for five minutes.
Add two cups boiling water, stirring until dissolved, then add to cucumbers and pour into mould. Serve with mayonnaise dressing.

One cucumber peeled and grated, one Cucumber Salad Dressing, egg yolk, juice of one lemon, two teaspoons prepared mustard, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper.

Beat egg yolk lightly, add to it the juice of the lemon. Add grated cucumber, mustard, and season to taste.

This dressing is most excellent for vegetable salad, meat salad and with fish salad.

STATE HEALTH ORGANIZATION

The Maine State Department of Health has at present reached a development in its work where eight separate divisions are supervising the good health of the state. The personnel of the Department now consists of the commissioner, eight district health officers, and directors, together with clerks and stenographers of the following divisions: administration, diagnostic laboratories, sanitary engineering, laboratorics, vital statistics, venereal disease, public health nursing and child hygiene, public health education and publicity, and communicable disease. These workers are all at the service of the citizens of Maine for the promotion of better health, and work in close co-operation with local health boards, various private state organization, and the Red Cross.

PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY

There is no magic which the state and the local health departments can work for the betterment of the public health. Their results are obtained through patient and persistent efforts of education and law enforcement. Probably the best work of the health departments is the education of the public to a sense of personal responsibility for their own and the community's health, as the well being of the community must be governed by the well being of the individuals in it, says the Maine Department of Health.

JUSTICE SPEAR AGAINST THE FLY

Recognition of the fact that the house fly is a menace to the public health and is not to be tolerated, we it can spread its filth upon human food, is found in an opinion recently rendered by Justice Spear of the Maine Supreme court. The case which Justice Spear has granted a new trial on the above grounds is that of Lucius E. Williams, a hotel keeper in York County, against Frederick A. Sweet and his family, who were guests at the hotel, who with his family left the hotel because of the alleged numerous flies which infested the dining room near the table assigned his party, thereby breaking his contract with the proprietor for two weeks.

The in-keeper brought suit against Mr. Sweet for the full amount of the bill which the contract called for.
The verdict in the case was originally rendered the hotel keeper, and upon appeal to the law court a new trial was granted by Justice Spear, who holds that Mr. Sweet was within rights in breaking his contract because of the in-sanitary condition caused by the flies.

The keynote of the opinion is contained in the following quotation from
it. "The real issue involves but a single question of fact; was the defendant justified in leaving the hotel on account of the fault of the plaintiff in allowing flies to collect at the hotel, and in such numbers as to become insupportable and repulsive? We think he was. It is a matter of common knowledge that the house fly has come to be regarded by enlightened understanding, not only as one of the most annoying and repulsive of insects, but as one of the most dangerous in its capacity to gather, carry and disseminate the germs of disease. He is the meanest of all scavengers. He delights in reveling in all kinds of filth.
Of every vermin, he is above all others the least able to prove an ally when charged with having been in touch with every kind of corruption and with having been contaminated with the germs thereof. The danger with which his presence is fraught is a matter of common knowledge and hence of judicial notice."

In rendering his opinion, Justice Spear made use of scientific bulletins and circulars issued by the Maine Department of Health, which he frequently quoted. The Department feels that in this judicial recognition of the fly menace to health, a marked advance has been made in the anti-fly campaign which it has long been waging for the protection of the public.

READ THIS!

It is not necessary for your children to have measles, whooping cough, scarlet fever, and other so-called diseases of childhood. Prevent them by the Maine Department of Health. There is no more false and harmful statement than the old saying "The younger they have it the better." Having contagious diseases today is often only a mark of ignorance and neglect. It has been aptly said "Contagious diseases are the result of carelessness, and a chum of death." Springs from neglect and is the result of carelessness. To deliberately expose a child to such a disease as measles, as some mothers have been known to do, is little less than a crime.

THE HOT LUNCH

The hot lunch for school children has been demonstrated to be of both physical and mental benefit to the child. Seven distinct advantages in the plan can be instantly pointed out:

- 1.—Improved physical condition of the pupils.
- 2.—Improved power of learning.
- 3.—Makes discipline in the afternoon easier as restlessness, irritability and 'nerves' often result from faulty nutrition.
- 4.—Does away with the hurried hap-pazard eating customary with the cold lunch.
- 5.—Gives opportunity to teach table manners and proper eating habits.
- 6.—Creates a social bond between pupils and teacher.
- 7.—Opportunity is given the teacher to interest the pupils in food values, proper appreciation for correct food and its preparation.

To measure rainfall it is necessary to use a rain gauge. In its common form it consists of a cylindrical vessel closed at the top by a funnel-shaped lip, through a hole in the center of which the rain falls. A narrow glass tube rising out side the vessel from near the bottom, shows the amount of rain in the vessel.
A very simple rain gauge consists of a copper funnel, the area of whose opening is ten square inches. This funnel allows the rain to pass into a bottle and the quantity of rain caught is ascertained by multiplying the weight in ounces by 173, which gives the depth in inches. A rain gauge must be placed in an open position as possible, away from trees, houses or other obstructions.

$100.00 REWARD

It has been said by those who either have no Maine Gems to sell, or else because of ignorance that there is no such thing as a Maine Gem. My show case is filled with semi-precious stones, mined and cut in Maine, and sold throughout the U. S. in the best stores, including Tiffany & Co. of New York. The above sum will be paid to any person who can prove there are no Maine Gems. I would be perfectly safe in making it a million dollars reward, did I possess that amount of money.

Chamber Of Commerce Meeting

At the regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, August 18, there was a good attendance and considerable important business transacted. Ten new members have recently been voted into membership, bringing the total to about 85. It was voted to change the by-laws and hold the regular meetings the third Wednesday of each month. Directors will meet once in two weeks. Plans for co-operating with the Grand Trunk for the improvement of the "Common" are rapidly being perfected. The Chamber expects the assistance of all good citizens in this work which cannot fail to be of great benefit to our community.

Lester Hathaway, who cut his foot severely a short time ago, commenced work for his father again Monday.

The Woodstock Athletic Club won their game of baseball with the Norway Tigers at the V. I. S. Field, Saturday by the score of 9 to 0. This was the best game played here this year and the two teams may meet here again next Saturday. Jake Klein, the Colby College veteran, pitched a good ball for the losers but the three errors behind him were costly and figured in the scoring.

Hathaway, the Bates Freshman pitcher, was also effective and the team played errorless ball behind him.

Charles W. Noyes, the son of Charles B. Noyes is critically ill with pneumonia.

Work on the new park in front of the railway station is progressing rapidly. The rocks have been removed and the knoll near the center leveled off. Work will be suspended for a few days until the gravel to be furnished by the Milton Trunk arrives. The State Highway Commissioners have consented to have the road passing the park improved and work will commence on that at once. The New England Telephone Company have also agreed to replace the poles there and to paint them.

The Woodstock Athletic Club's second team was defeated by the Milton team at Milton, Saturday. The third game will be played here this week.

Among the five Oxford County boys to receive scholarships at the University of Maine for next year were Hiram O. Noyes and C. Roger Lippin of this town. These scholarships are based on rank and conduct. Lloyd Hathaway has also been awarded a scholarship at Bates College, this is also awarded to students of high rank. Messrs. Lippin and Hathaway are both graduates of Woodstock High school but Noyes graduated from Deering High School.

Homer E. Crooker for the past three years principal of the High School here has been elected principal of Berwick Academy at South Berwick. He will move his family there the first of September.

TWICE-TOLD TESTIMONY

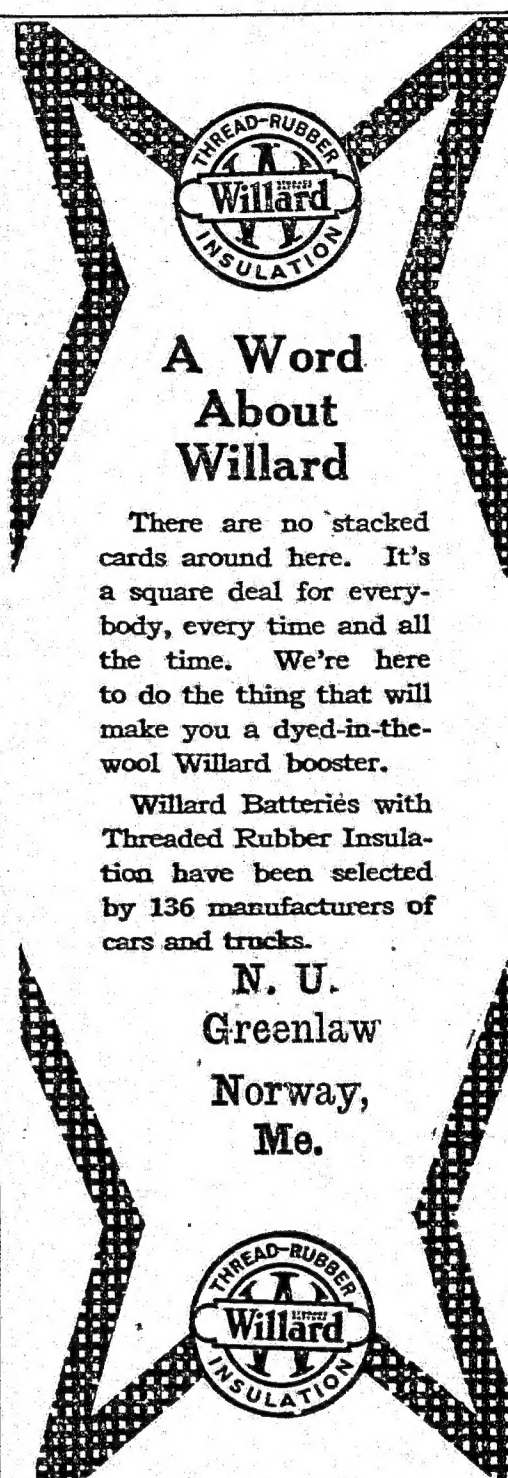

Norway People Are Doing All They Can For Fellow Sufferers

Norway testimony has been published to prove the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills to others in Norway who suffer from bad backs and kidney ills. Let any sufferer doubt this evidence of merit, we produce confirmed proof—statements from Norway people who again endorse Doan's Kidney Pills—confirm their former testimony. Here's a Norway case:

S. C. Foster, barber, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and I am only too glad to say to others I think they are the best of kidney medicines. Several years ago I had kidney trouble. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at F. P. Stone's Drug Store and I was soon feeling all right again. I remained so for a long time, but later caught cold and my kidneys gave me trouble. I again took Doan's and they gave me relief."

EIGHT YEARS LATER, Mr. Foster added: "I still think as well of Doan's Kidney Pills today as when I first endorsed them. I used them occasionally, as I feel in need of them and I am always promptly benefited."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Foster had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.
